Cover Oregon	Cover Oregon Inmate Eligibility Determination information was presented by Stephanie Gilbert, Kim Howard and Amber Hoffman. Kim stated that Polk County Behavioral Health - Addiction Services - currently provides assistance to incarcerated individuals in applying for Cover Oregon Health Insurance prior to their release. This service is available by a request from an individual, PO, treatment provider, law enforcement and other service providers. The process includes monitoring individual release dates and providing application assistance prior to release. Kim Howard, an application assister also obtains all intake paperwork so that the individual is able to make a seamless transition from incarceration to addiction services and mental health treatment. Stephanie Gilbert and Amber Hoffman who are Cover Oregon representatives stated that they were regularly signing up to provide application assistance at the Marion County Jail but had not yet pursued this at the Polk County Jail. Jennifer Lief stated it was often difficult to obtain access into the Polk County Jail as they are currently short staffed.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Information
Trauma Informed Care	Sara Dotson discussed Trauma Informed Care . Polk County has created "Trauma Informed Care" training. The purpose of the training is to inform others on how to recognize trauma, the impact on ones ability to function and navigate through different systems, how to most effectively work with individuals with trauma, and recognizing how our own trauma impacts professional relationships, and self care. The training addresses how a service provider's trauma can interfere when interacting with others. It discusses topics such as how interventions address trauma, when is it appropriate to show more compassion rather than retraumatizing an individual. Training is being provided by Shawna Phillips and Jack Nix from DHS-Child Welfare and Kerry Blum from Children's Behavioral Health at Polk County. The training team is hoping to provide training to Police and Fire departments which would be coordinated to meet agency needs.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Information

	such as pre/post booking, behavioral health, juvenile, supervision and work with the county to determine why elements of the system work well and which need to be improved. Next Tuesday October 14, 2014 at 9:00 am the Criminal Justice Commission (CJC) will make a presentation to the Commissioners. The Commissioners will make a decision about Polk County submitting an application the CJC for participation in the EBDM process. Aaron Felton stated Polk County had an opportunity to bring in representatives from the National Institute of Corrections (NIC) to help evaluate Polk County's criminal justice system, strengths, challenges and gaps in services. NIC and CJC could help identify ways the entities in the criminal justice system could work together to fill gaps in services and better identify and utilize funding streams. Former Dallas Chief of Police - John Teague sits on the statewide committee in support of the EBDM process. He will be attending as a participant in the CJC presentation to the Board of Commissioners. Six Oregon counties will be accepted into the program. If Polk County Commissioner's decide to complete the application it will be a large commitment but it encompasses all aspects of public safety in Polk County and allows Polk County to evaluate their programs and processes from a different perspective with the collaboration of agency partners
